John F. Thompson

"Duncanville Weekly News": In the early 1990's there was a huge void in sports coverage in Duncanville. The then Today newspaper didn't think the local people cared about high school sports. Having recently left the banking industry, John was looking for a new job interest. He had played high school and college basketball so sports was his interest

John and his wife Martha created Green Tree Productions and initiated Duncanville Weekly News, a weekly TV show that focused on sports and the Good News of Duncanville. Their slogan was "We Were There" because their plan was to cover every sporting event DHS played.

But more was going on behind the new show. John put his film to extra use: making highlights of all the season's games + musical highlights for the team banquets. Now the parents could sit in the stands and enjoy watching their kids play, knowing that John was there to record it all for their enjoyment for years to come. Also, he put together highlights of individual players to help them get college scholarships. And when Bob Alpert was looking for added motivation for his football team, every week John put together a short video from the previous games footage and set it to Go and Get 'Um music. On Friday night, just before the team took the field, Coach Alpert would gather his team to watch. Duncanville won the State Championship one of those years. John was asked to put together the team game programs for football and went on to do the basketball. He sold the ads and did the layout, with the athletic department receiving most of the money.

John has immortalized Duncanville's greatest athletes and coaches. He created a History of the Pantherettes with the only footage of Coach Sandra Meadows sitting mid-court in the old gym talking about her great teams and their traditions. Half the proceeds from the sales were given to the Pantherette Exes Scholarship Foundation.

With 25+ years of DHS history, John has offered assistance to the newly created Sports Commission for the City. Their objective is to someday have a museum to honor the local sports legends. They would love for Duncanville to be the home of a High School Basketball Hall of Fame. John is hoping to see all the years of game footage benefit the public who travel here to discover why we are called The City of Champions.
